

Skye Flanagan

4 and half month's Old

Tumours on Rats

17 May 2021

On Monday morning the 10th of May 2021, I noticed that Skye had a large lump on her neck. The lump I read up was a tumour that most female rats get.

Tuesday morning it was like a ball and all grey, not looking good.

I decided to give her CBD Tincture oil with turmeric and honey.

I started her on 2 drops 3 times a day and noticed that the large lump was getting smaller each day. On Saturday I saw that the lump was completely gone and just a small flesh wound was in its place. I sprayed it with Colloidal Silver and continued with the drops.

Today a week from the drama, she only has a small scab instead of this large tumour.

I have decided to show you the before picture with the tumour and after picture with just the scab, and you can judge for yourself.

Before Picture

After Picture

